.....

Some friends come into our lives for short time. Others come and stay forever. Think about your closest friends. They are like your brothers and sisters. They always back you up. You are great buddies. You can always count on them because they never lie to you. You sometimes argue, but you get on well with them most of the time. They are called "true friends". What turns a stranger into a true friend? Can a stranger become a true friend if you spend enough time together? That may be true for some people, but true friendships happen when we have something in common. It happens when we share similar likes and dislikes. It happens when we see a part of ourselves in our friends.

1. You can always depend on your true friends because .....

- A) They don't keep their promise.
B) They never tell lies to you.
C) They always argue.
